WASHINGTON, Nov. 15 .- (P)-President Hoover is calling a small group of industrial, agricultural and labor lenders to meet next week with high federal officials and plan for revival of construction activity and ther means of spurring business.

Announcing the step, the president revealed today that this week he had engaged "in numerous conferences with important business leaders and public officials with a view to the co-ordination of business and governmental agencies in concerted action for continued business progress."

Secretaries Mellon, Hyde, Lamont and Davis will represent the treasury, agriculture, commerce and labor departments and Chairman Legge the farm board in the forthcoming meeting. Mr. Hoover did not name those outside the government who will participate.

NOVEL DANCE ACT WINS AUDIENCE AT MIDNIGHT SHOW

Butterbeans and Susie, two of the best-known colored vaudeville stars in the country, literally took the first midnight frolic of the season for whites only. There was not a dull moment on the entire program, and the rowd seemed thoroughly pleased with the performance. Butterbeans and Susie head their own company of talented colored stars. In the Gibson family, the show presented five real performers. There was "Father" Gibson and his two young boys and girls, who won applause for their dancing. It was an act of novelty, comedy buck dancing, such as is seldom seen on a local stage.

In addition there was plenty of catchy songs, comedy skits by veteran comedians and excellent dancing by a well-trained chorus.

Black told the senate he would ask action on the amendments when the proposed legislation is taken up at the regular session.

One amendment would authorize the secretary of war to proceed with construction of dam No. 3 with such changes in the original plans as he might deem advisable both in interest of power development and navigation. He told how individual manipulations began in a small way as early as 1926 and how one man appropriated nearly $700,000 of call money which he handled apart from the bank. He described how stocks were bought but not paid for until they appreciated in value and how on the other hand heavy losses were incurred in the bull market by selling short and later how the crash came with the collapse of the stock market and the misuse of the bank's founds no longer could be concealed.

Part of Wilkin's statement told how Charles S. Mr. Wilkin explained that if there was a decline in the price of a stock purchased, "a fictitious note would be drawn up and put into the files of the bank. This would be signed by one of the participants, either in his own name, or more often, fictitiously. These notes would be held until the stock appreciated in value to be taken up by the proceeds of the subsequent sale. This procedure was followed throughout 1928 and this year, and was quite successful. Christensen said that by the spring of 1929 he had accumulated profits of about $100,000 without actually having stolen any of the bank's funds."

"With the slump in Wall Street," the statement added, "it was impossible to such the market on accumulation of the bank's funds."

"If a way cannot be found to carry the interest and sinking fund costs without a tax increase, there is no use in putting the matter before the people," Mr. Pennington said.

AROUT RURNING WORDS. Maybe I am wrong, but it seems to me that I have observed that temperate language wins greater battles than intemperate language. Speakers and writers who go in for vitupera-tion and "plain speaking," meaning by that what is usually meant by it in the press and on the rostrum, soon lose their vogte. The speaker or writer who opposes wild language with mild statements, being sure his facts are facts, is likely to hold the boards after the other is forgotten.

We can and should do something the like; but not the he-flapper.

We can and should do something to stop this dangerous trend. We can effect a radical reform in our educational policy. As a beginning in such reform we can eliminate all professionalism and outside sporting interest from public and high school athletics or physical training. We can make a reasonable graded physical test requisite for a passing mark in every grade of public or high school promotion. We can make a fair degree of proficiency in boxing, swimming or other accomplishment an essential for graduation from high school. In short, we can best combat the effeminacy of modern life by discouraging the "fan" weakness and developing in every boy and girl, if not actual athletic ambition, then at least a wholesome interest in and appetite for playing his own game. hero of the hour.

Ga., against the long, almost life tenue of the presiding eldership, conference politicians so long entrenched in power were almost defiant of any interference with their cardinal jurisdictions. Some relief was won by that insurgent movement.

Branson Says, in Laying Aside Cloth.

Charging that the Methodist system is one of concentrated power tending toward tyranny and consequent revolt, for its participation in politics, the Rev. T. J. Branson, pastor of the First Church of Madison, Ga., severed his connection with the Methodist denomination after 25 years of pastorate, in an announcement made public here Friday.

Mr. Branson issued a lengthy statement in which he charges that the Methodist system in times past has been the storm center of agitation for modification by limitation. Friday, he asserted, there are storm signals that presage rough weather and high seas ahead. He said he believes that there are rumblings that portend earthquake and subsidence of the Episcopal system.

The resigning minister states that the alleged insurgency throughout the church, that which ails her preachers and her peonle, is easily answered. "In a nutshell," says the written statement," it is politics in the polity in politics, in severing his connection with the church. The first is that he says he does not agree with the church in regard to its polity and biblical interpretation. The second is an opportunity to enter the field of undenominational Bible conference teaching. Mr. Branson stated that in his belief he holds to the conservative position and is a fundamentalist "preferring no tags, as none are found on apostles and leaders of story of the stream of the surface of the church. Invitations have been extended to him from the Bryan Bible League of California that churches there will open their pulpits to teachers who are "true to the Book and the Blood," he stated.

"The American Association for the Promotion of Undenominational and Interdenominational Conferences is ready to serve all churches that will open their pulpits to men who stand for "inspiration, integrity and authority of the Scriptures and against the Jehoiakims of a ripping, rampant rationalism." asserted Mr. Branson.

The minister's statement of explanation for his action follows:

"It may be assumed that a minister whose record of service in the church extending over two decades would not wish to change his relationship by withdrawal without what seemed to him sufficient and satisfactory reasons. Some observations in the polity in the politys, wisdom might counsel a course of co-operation in the ranks of a rapidly movement to apply heroic remedy of limitation to episcopal power, but I movement to apply heroic remedy of limitation to episcopal power, but I ways doctrinally. The White Star liner Olympic will of the American delegation to the London naval conference has encoun-tered an obstacle in Rear Admiral Hilary Jones' tentative refusal to ac-cept assignment to the task intended for him.

Administration officials remain hopeful of his acceptance although both Mr. Hoover and the state department are fully acquainted with the situation and realize the ellerly officer may decide against them.

Friction among the highest group of a navel officers comprising the navy general board is behind Jones' indecision. Some of Mr. Hoover's own naval advisers resent the civilian state department's ascendancy in naval matters. This situation has been the subject of Washington tea table gossip ject of washington tea table gossip j ters. This situation has been the sub-ject of Washington tea table gossip for a week with the result a rather more serious breach is reported to have appeared than the one which apparently actually exists.

Question of Rank. There are two causes contributing to Jones' unexpected disinclination to go to London. Admiral William V. Pratt is senior to him in rank and as such would be senior American naval officer in London. Both have been named by Mr. Hoover for London duty. Hitherto in European discussion of armaments, Jones has been the senior American naval officer and the body of Sanders was recovered. A search was being made for the body of the negro.

Of greater consequence is Jones' insistence that he must know exactly what the United States will agree to if he is to accompany the American delegation. Jones outlined this desire to Secretary of State Stimson, who refused to bind the American delegation to a fixed program prior to the conference. Stimson and other civiliance connected with the haven people in the conference of the conference of fraud were made before the commission by Charles P. O'Neil, attorney for Smith. Pratt Charged Pro-British.

Subsidiary to this point of friction between a group of admirals headed by Jones and the state department is by Jones and the state department is disagreement as to the value of 10.-000-ton cruisers equipped with 8-inch guns. The general board accepts that type as the ideal for American purposes whereas civilian authorities consider it of only partly proven value explaining it is a comparatively new type of craft.

Under these circumstances the civilians undoubtedly would be willing to remove a 10,000-cruiser or two from the American program if such a con-cession would bring agreement among the five powers. The navy wants the present building program unchanged.

Pratt and to a lesser extent Stim-son and Under Secretary Cotton are receiving the brunt of the disaffected Washington arms conference

Compromise To Speed Tariff Offered Senate Coalition by Regulars WSB PROGRAMS

ing Through Measure After Disposal of Agricultural Sections by Debate.

BY FRANCIS M. STEPHENSON, Associated Press Staff Writer.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15 .- (AP) Compromise offers on the tariff bill in the interest of speeding up senate passage came today from the of republican regulars which polted the party leadership yesterday and blocked an adjournment of the special session.

The newly organized republican regulars, recruited principally from the newer members, proposed to the democratic-republican independent soon as the tariff majority that, as soon as the increased rates for agriculture are put into the measure, the existing in-dustrial duties be restored and the bill rushed to conference with the house. Taking under advisement the peace offer, leaders of the republican independents and the democrats gave assurance that no extended contest against the existing industrial schedules was contemplated. They indicated the interests of speed might best be served, however, by going straight through the bill in the usual manner. Discussions of some of the industrial schedules are still necessary, they warned.

Intimations came from those who participated in the republican uprising against the adjournment that they had received words of encouragement from President Hoover. There was considerable speculation tonight whether the president was behind the peace overture on the tariff, whereby proposed industrial rate increases would be abandoned with the promise that existing duties would be left unlisturbed.

First Proposal. The republican independents pro-posed at the outset of the tariff con-troversy, through Senator Borah, of Idaho, that the tariff bill be conto increases in agricultural alone, but his resolution was existing industrial rates."

With the senate rapidly ordering one increase after another in scores of agricultural duties during the day without roll-call votes, the prospects for final passage of the bill before the regular session in December brightened perceptibly.

The senate was still cogitating.

Senator Fees, of Ohio, the republican whip, took over some of the spokesmanship duties for the bolters.

Incidentally it was made clear today that the republicans who did not support Jones yesterday had intended that their leader be informed of their intentions. It seems Senator Fees was told about the decision of the newer republicans to stand against any adjournment at a dinner on Tuesday night. Senator Fees said he there were gratified over the turn of affairs.

Under the chairmanship of Alderman J. Charles Murphy, the committee held two sessions and heard a mass of technical discussion. Representatives of the Roebling Company said that the wire installed in the city hall is above code requirements.

The Roebling Company offered the $1,500 to show its good faith in the matter because of a clerical error made when the order for the wire was put through, it was said. Under the committee's recommendation, the wire installed in the city hall will be allowed to stay in, and the money settlement will be accepted as offered. The original city hall contract specified a certain patented wire or its equal, but this clause was amended later so as to allow installation of another wire.

South Carolina's Brightest FLOWER SHOW PROVES

CHARLES ARDEN MOBLEY, JR.

OF GROCER'S WIFE

TWO MEN WHO BEAT NEGRO FOR WHISKY

DEBT CONVICTED

INDICTED BY JURY

ALLEGED SLAYERS

The brightest boy in South Carolina now is enrolled as a student in the freshman class of Georgia Tech. The bright boy is Charles Arden Mobley, Jr., of Orangeburg, who was Edison contest winner for his state,

The contest in South Carolina, unlike that in Georgia, was not conducted by districts, but was a statewide affair. The information was first given out that the winner would be picked through recommendation, and young Mobley was satisfied that he stood a good chance of being picked. But when it was decided that the state's representative would be picked through competitive examination, he was ready to back down and give up the contest. Under persuasion he took the exam, and was quite surprised to find that he proved to be the smartest boy in South Carolina, after all. During the national contest, Mobley found the 47 other bright boyswere very much like the average good fellow, except that they had, perhaps, a little more polish. He found association with such a select group quite inspiring, and said that none of them was in the least conceited over his distinction.

The group of selected students spent three or four days in Orange. N. J., and in New York city before the final competitive exam, which was held on the morning before the last. According to Mobley, most of the boys were nervous about the exam, but all did surprisingly well. The highest grade received was 92 1-2, and the lowest was said to be 88. This shows a degree of mental closeness rarely found in a group of similar size.

Freshman Mobley asserts that the Edison contest was an unforgettable experience for him, and that, every new and then, some question will arise which will call to his mind that final exam. This promising young student finds that Georgia Tech has more than finds that Georgia Tech has more than exam. This promising young student finds that Georgia Tech has more than lived up to all his expectations, and that, in short, everything is perfect around here except the weather.

LATE-DATE MANIA IRRITATES LONG-SUFFERING DAD

Paterfamilias Kicks At

A VERY EMINENT pater familias of this city, encouraged by the early-to-bed movement in New York, ventured to inquire if reformers were concerning themselves with the late-date mania that has possessed the younger group; any possibility of having the parents of the parents of reformers were concerning themselves with the late-date mania that has possessed the younger group; any possibility of having late dates ruled out of fashion. He asked all of this in such a hopeful voice I hadn't the heart to discourage him.

He explained (with an evident effort for conservatism) that, of course, girls had always had beaux. He was, he admitted, accustomed to all of that; but, he argued, they used to have them all together, not one at a time. In some homes they actually had to bring in the benches on Saturday afternoons and evenings, he pointed out. They came at the same time and sat around, talking together.

Now, he continued, they come one at a time. From 7 to 8, from 8 to 9, from 9 to 10 and so on until the hours become so very small that human nature, with business for the morning, couldn't stand it.

"What can I do about it?" he inquired. "I have to do the chaperoning. I have to sit in the library—as far away as possible—and read, longer than any normal man wants to read anything—even a detective longer than any normal man wants to read anything-even a detective story. What can I do baout it?"

We told the dear man that there was nothing he could do about it at present but just read on, but that hope was looming in the near to the altar."

HE mothers-of-debutantes committee of New York have sifted the social situation there and discovered at the bottom of things two facts that in their opinion call for immediate attention: that going home early in the morning from parties was no longer possible. First, because the promising young businessmen (particularly in demand) refused to stay longer than midnight at any party; that the only beaux left after 2 o'clock were college youths, who were not in demand at all, except as dancing partners. They have also discovered that dancing un-til daylight spoils the elasticity of youth even in the freshest and youngest of debutantes. As a result of all this the late hour taboo has been accomplished. The following time-table has been adopted for New York debutante affairs this season.

Dimners should begin at 8 o'clock and guests should sit down promptly.

Dances should begin at 10 o'clock, supper should be served at 12 o'clock and the closing time (2-3 o'clock) should be stated on the invitations.

Luncheons should be served promptly at 1 o'clock in order to give time for afternoon engage-

"Everybody's talking about—"
"About what?" "Nothing in particular." "About nothing—"
"Oh, about everything in general. About love and matrimony; about football; about a splendid young hero—a famous splendid young hero—a famous young gridiron hero lately exploited in Collier's, Liberty and all the northern sporting papers; a resolute and daring young hero, who helped to win the greatest of all victories. I can't tell you his real name, I only know his

N this puffing, puffing age, when so many women, young and not so young, divert themselves according to fashion, smoking cigarets, we stumble each day on certain re-curring types. There are the women who don't smoke at all—always in the great majority; those who really like to smoke, and do so on all occasions; those who smoke—just to be congenial; some who smoke to please their husbands; others who smoke when the children are safe in bed or far enough away to be in no danger of possible bad ex-

One of the latter of these types discovered recently that childish minds are capable of unexpected reactions.

"Mamma," said her little 10-year-old recently, "this morning teacher asked every pupil whose mother saked every pupil whose mother smoked to stand up. Every girl in my section stood up but me. I was scared most to death. I jumped up, too, as quick as I could. I didn't want anybody thinking my mamma was a curious sort of person."

RS. JOHN M. SLATON, chairman of the ladies' committee of the Cuban Good Will Tour, has a problem of her own these days. She has been requested to days. She has been requested to bring the debutantes in a body to the Georgia Military academy ball, which will follow the football game between the academy and the University of Cuba early in December. She is especially requested to bring them without their escorts, as each will find awaiting her an already com-pletely filled dance program.

An almost infinite number of Georgia Military academy boys and University of Cuba boys will be awaiting them and beaux with prior claims would, it seems, be considered very much in the way.

Mrs. Slaton explains that the only way to manage this will be secure the aid of a group of Atlanta matrons, have each of them pack her car with a proper number of debutantes and rush away without a word's notice, leaving each girl's favorite sweetie far behind.

Mrs. John R. Kruse, of East Orange, N. J., who is spending sometime with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Mr. and Mrs. Kruse made their home in Chattanooga before moving to East Orange a year ago.

"If Ah gets in," said Unc' Billy as moment. All he heard was the faint clucking of some of the hens as they crowded together on the roosts inside the henhouse. Then Unc' Billy made straight for the little door which the hens use. He remembered that little door. He had used it a long time ago. He remembered the eggs he had had and how, when he had eaten all he could old, he became sleepy and curled up for a nap in one of the nests and there was found by Farmer Brown's Boy.

"If Ah gets in," said Unc' Billy "If Ah gets in," said Unc' Billy to himself, "Ah is comin' right out again as soon as Ah gets me a chicken. Ah won' go to sleep in there no me'."

Bruce was a little startled. He took Suzanne's hand, looked at Tom, looked back again.

"And to think I let him take care of you at that house party," he exclaimed.

Suzanne laughed. She didn't once say that she heard so much of Bruce, or anything like that.

She said instead: "You're probably both quite tired and you were both out last night, so I've made you a cocktail."

Tom frowned—because he wanted to smile. She had done the unexpected thing. But why? They went into the snug living room, with Suzanne's books piled up in built-in shelves against one wall, and against the other trophies and guns and rods and tennis rackets, belonging to Tom, arranged decoratively.

She said good-by not long afterwards and shook hands with Bruce with a kind of formal cordiality. He was in a bad humor still. As Kathleen spoke for a moment with Suzanne he drew Tom aside.

"I don't like her." Bruce said curtily. "If I have time and I'm around here at all I'll show her a thing or two!"

How feminine she was, how charming. Tom thought. He would have liked to catch her up, hold her tightly in a bear's grip until she squealed and begged him to be good. He was proud of her.

"That," said Bruce as he emptied his glass, "is one of the best cocktails Tve ever tasted."

Then they had dinner. She had baked lobster in little individual casseroles, and there were all sorts of special bottled sauces and two kinds of cheese and fragrant, strong coffee, and two really good cigars afterwards.

She laughed again. "Better be careful! I know all about her. I read your letters."

Bruce affected to be embarrassed, and he did it so well that she laughed until she had to tell him to stop.

Tom sat there like a bear, indeed, a good natured and immensely pleased bear. Why, it was clear renough; wasn't it? All she needed was a firm hand. He had been a fool to give in all those other times. Probably she respected him infinitely more now because he had stood up for his rights. She was not merely docile, she was doing her very best to charm his friend.

He put that down to pride. She was sorry, he was sure of that, and looked forward to the moment in their bedroom when he would hear her faltered confession and seal his forgiveness with a long kiss.

After dinner they returned to the living room. It was June and the evening was unusually balmy. Suzanne asked Bruce all sorts of questions, and he talked in his easy fashion.

"No, I don't know how long I'll stay in the country. Some day I'll wake up feeling restless, and then I'll be off again. I wonder how I ever stuck out college. I couldn't now."

"Mrs. Stevens will probably be glad to see you."

Bruce smiled, but he was feeling a little sad and solemn that evening. And he had long before this put down the quarrel he had overheard last night as something of little importance. He had given too much weight to it. He looked at Tom, beaming idiotically, his heavy, strong featured face as open as a book.

There came a ring at the doorbell. "Why, I forgot!" Tom declared.

Staff Correspondent.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Nov. 15.—
They are tenting tonight on the old camp ground and the old camp ground is very, very wet. Consequently there is only even money waving proudly in the air as your Uncle Dan McGugin's Commodores and the Vols of Tennessee make ready for their annual game Saturday afternoon.

Before the rains came and the floods descended there was some slight leaning of the odds toward the Knoxville Vols, but all that was dissipated by the heavy and torrential rains which have been falling here all week. Shields Watkins field looked like a duck pond at 4 o'clock this afternoon, and the clouds were still low and heavy.

UPSETS PLANS.

UPSETS PLANS.

Just why the rainfall should dissipate any enlargement of the Tennessee sympathy is difficult to understand. Rain falls on the just and the unjust and both the Commodores and the Vols shoot with ammunition that is best suited to land and not for a life on the bounding waves.

Yo ho. Still there is no denying that the footing is better on a dry field and Vanderbilt's plan this searen has been to bend every effort to score early and then hang on. And a heavy field interferes with any plans about immediate scoring and places the game very much in the lap of the gods. If this correspondent's opinion that the Commodores, given a dry field, would have been out of the gous. If this correspondent is opinion that the Commodores, given a dry field, would have been out ahead of the Vols before one quarter was gone. These teachings of childhood are hard to rid oheself of and as a consequence there is heap of noggins being wagged in a dolorous fashion tonight as the boys speak of the wet field the wet field.

IMPORTANCE.

This game Saturday afternoon may decide the championship of the Southern conference. If the Commodores win they will have only to eliminate Sewanee to have the clearest claim to the title. Should Tennessee win they will have to go and eliminate Kentucky before their claim will be clear. Hence all the hullabaloo about this game. It is right important. The the wet field.

Hence all the hullabaloo about this game. It is right important. The Commodores and the Vols have been playing with some consistency since 1892, and in that time the Commodores have scored 559 points to 89 for Tennessee, and in 25 games the Commodores have won 18 and tied 3. But those records are in the past. The pay-off will be on the points scored tomorrow afternoon. Hence the frenzy tonight.

CAMPED AT RESORT.

CAMPED AT RESORT.

The Commodores are quartered at Whittle Springs, a summer resort hotel, five miles out of Knoxville. They are there that they will escape the jam and the clamoring when some 8,000 Nashville fans, the usual foot ball crowd that goes to the ball game, arrives late tonight and at an early hour in the morning. Both bands are here and both very much in evidence to the eye and the auditors' nerves. Oh, very much so. There is the customary run on ginger ale at the soda fountains and the bell boys are in a lather from toting ice water. are in a lather from toting ice water.

This is the big game for the state of Tennessee and they get right excited about it.

Your Uncle Dan McGugin allowed that he have your inflicit and like.

Tour Uncle Dan McGugin allowed that his boys were in fair condition. He has no one who is playing hooky from a hospital cot and the regular lineup will start even if Benny Parker and Jesse Thomas, backfield men, are a not in the best of condition.

DAN DISTRESSED.

Your Uncle Dan is distressed about the rain largely by its demands of greater expenditure of physical veryy than a dry field. RNOXVILLE, Nov. 15.—So great is the press here tonight and so devoid of rooms is the city that the city officials have thrown open the courthouse and the city half for the visitors. They will be kept heated all night so that the benches may be used by those who are unable to find accommodations elsewhere. Indications are that several hundred will use them.

France Opposes Open Net Meet

PARIS, Nov. 15,—(United News.) Opposition to the American proposal for open tennis championships was voiced today by France.

than a dry field. It is his idea that the team, already tired from the consecutive games with Alabama and Tech, might tire before the game is done and permit a scoring punch from the superior reserve list of the Vols to score in the last half.

It is this condition of the Commodores which worries the coaches most. They do not know whether the team has bounced back from the two hard games or not.

The United States Lawn Tennis Association has proposed an amendment to the regulations of the International Tennis Federation, whereby amateurs no longer would be barred from meeting professionals, as at present, provided the sanction of the governing national body was obtained. The question will come before the International Federation in March.

"We object," said M. Canet, "to the proposal to sanction 'open' tennis championship tournaments, for this reason; that we have just succeeded in pacifying the French tax authorities after a five-year quarrel, on the same basis as are professional sports.

"Tennis, in France, as an amateur sport, does not have to pay the heavy taxes imposed upon professional spec-tacles such as boxing."

It will be an Homeric battle and if Tennessee really is as good as the three-year record indicates, Tennessee will outscore the Nashvilles. If Amos Leonard and Benny Parker and that slashing Vandy rush line can pull this one out of the fire, they will have earned a Conference championship.

REGULARS TO RESCUE.

Toward the end of the quarter Mehre began warming up Paris Chandler, Dickens (Waugh and Davidson were already in there), Maffet, "Catfish" Smith, Congressman Frisbie, Rose, Leathers, Maddox and Captain Boland. When the second quarter opened he sent them out to relieve the rest.

Georgia had the ball on Auburn's 35-yard line. After Harkins, Auburn lineman, had rumbled in and spilled a play before it started, Paris, the tiny quarterback, went outside right guard and cut back for 5 yards' worth before they nailed him.

They held Dickens for no gain. Fourth down and 27 yards from the goal line, Spurgeon Chandler, well covered, dropped back and waited for Maffet to get in position. Then he slung a fly ball pass which Maffett caught and ran 10 yards to the goal line. H. Long dived at Maffett as he caught the ball but missed him. DIFFERENT PICTURE.

The Vanderbilt-Tennessee game presents a different picture. I do not think that the fans will see as not think that the fans will see as hard a line fight or as much crashing, driving play as the Tech-Alabama game will offer, but I am sure there will be thrills galore. Two sets of great backs will meet, both of whom predominate in speed and deception. This should be a wide open running game. McEver is credited with being the fastest back in the south, and his running mate, Hackman, is not far behind. The Commodores' great improvement as the season has been advancing makes them look formidable against any team in the country, and with a real advantage in the line they will be hard to beat. Everyone looks for a Tennessee victory, but I would rather trail along with Vanderbilt.

The difference in schedules will have something to do with the condition of the teams, as Tennessee has been favored with an extremely easy schedule, having had two "rest" games in a row, while Vanderbilt has been playing Alabama and Georgia Tech. Albie Booth Is Lost For Princeton Game

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 15.—(AP)—Injuries suffered in the Maryland game will keep little Albie Booth, Yale backfield star, on the sidelines tomorrow when the Blues faces Princeton in the Yale bowl, Head Coach Mal Stevens announced tonight.

Word that the little fellow would not play came as a startling shock on the eve of the major eastern contest. The development increased ten-fold the hopes of Black and Orange supporters for a victory in the 53rd meeting of the two teams.

Booth has been at practice all week, although the injury to his left leg prevented him from taking any stressous part in the work-outs.

Bob Hall, who was hurt in the Dartmouth game, has recovered sufficiently and will appear in Booth's place. Booth was today cohined in the Yale infirmary, where every effort was made to get the "Charley horse" to respond to treatment.

In the event there is improvement, Stevens said Booth might be in uniform tomorrow, although he considered this "very doubtful."

Only the limited facilities of their arena prevent Iowa and Purdue from fighting their battle for the Big Ten championship before as big a crowd as any of the day.

They know they can grab a high rating by beating the Hoosiers, but it will take superwork to do it.

Ebbetts, Devos In Elimination

NEW YORK, Nov. 15.—(United News.)—Harry Ebbets, Freeport. L. I., knockout specialist, and Rene Devos, of Belgium, European middleweight champion, will meet November 22 at Madison Square Garden in a bout which is expected to produce the next foe for Middleweight Champion Mickey Walker.

Walker is now under suspension in New York, but it is expected that the commission will lift its ban if Walker can be persuaded to meet the Devos-Ebbets winner in an indoor bout.

Devos' recent surprising defeat at the hands of Doc Conrad, youthful Jersey City boxer, has resulted in the odds dropping from 8 to 5 on Devos to even money.

The supporting card will include 10 rounds between Eugene Huat, of France, and Black Hill, of Cuba, semi-tinalists in the Garden's flyweight championship tournament, and Vince Dundee, Baltimore, and Nick Testo, Troy welterweight.

Cuban President Unable To Come To Atlanta Game

HAVANA, Cuba, Nov. 15.—

(P)—President Machado, of Cuba, today said affairs of state made it impossible for him to accept the invitation of Georgia officials to attend the basketball and football games in Atlanta on Deember 3 between the Georgia Military Academy and Havana University.

"It would take a special act of congress for me to leave Cuban soil," he told Adjutant General Homer C. Parker, of Georgia, who is here making arrangements for the games, "and we at present are too busy rearranging our economic household for this visit. But please know my spirit and friendship attends your labor, that I will do my utmost to encourage Cubans to accept your invitations. Financial affairs fortunately have no bearing on international friendship and we at least have surplus of the latter."

General Parker brought an invitation to the president from Governor L. G. Hardman, of Georgia. Accompanying General Parker were Mayor I. N. Ragsdale, of Atlanta; B. S. The Huskies have nothing to lose and everything to gain. Defeat and disappointment have been heaped upon them since the start of the season. Tech, Alabama Clash Here To Attract Large Crowd.

Big gridiron guns of the south will roar along the Knoxville battlefront tomorrow as the Volunteers of Tennessee and the Commodores of Vanderbilt exchange salvos with a possible Southern conference championship in the offing for the winner.

Tennessee and Vanderbilt have bowled over all opposition thus far in their mad rush for the flag. The Vols and the Commodores are traditional rivals of many years' standing. Their annual meeting is always a battle for blood and a game in which past performances do not count.

Smaller cannon will boom on farflung war fields—nine in fact—in Dixie as two other undefeated teams risk their banners against the enemy and a half dozen more gridiron battalions engage in sectional strife. Three teams step out of the conference to meet other southern foes and there are two intersectional encounters.

of course, the silk pants now being worn at Notre Dame and a few other colleges. I must admit that they were quite the rage a short while ago, but they are now nearly obsolete. This is largely due to their perishableness and disproportionately large cost. No amount of money spent on equipment is too great if it will really help the team, but I think that the frame of mind of the players is a hundred times more important than the particular excellence of their outfits.

"To be suce, certain psychological effects are to be aimed at. For instance, my men practice in heavy shoes, with stockings, and weighty uniforms. But for the games they wear light shoes and jerseys, and no stockings. This seems to have the effect of making their movements freer and causing them to be quicker and lighter on their feet. There is not really such a difference in weight, but the psychological effect of this procedure is astounding."

In commenting further upon the now almost extinct style of silk pants, rapid as past ones have been.

This from Coach Wade:

"The latest wrinkle in football is, f course, the silk pants now being orn at Notre Dame and a few other olleges. I must admit that they were uite the rage a short while ago, but hey are now nearly obsolete. This s largely due to their perishableness in disproportionately large cost. No mount of money spent on countent 1926.

Coach Wade said that, although the Alabama team would look very striking in red silk, many of his men would object to wearing something "sissified." This objection was made by some of Pop Warner's West coast stars, who wore silk trousers for the first time in the Rose Bowl tilt between Alabama and Stanford, in 1926.

The relative cost of a flapper's clothes and those of a grid star are interesting to contemplate, according to the following average figures on the cost of a football uniorm in the modern manner. Shoes for the athlete cost from $15 to $18; stockings, about $2.50; helmet, $5 or $6; jersey, $3.50. and silk pants, $25. Pants de soie thus cost five times as much as those usually worn by southern teams. In addition to this they rarely survive more than two games.

JACKETS, TIDE ARE TIED OVER 7-YEAR PERIOD

Each Has Won Three Games-Battle for Edge Today.

By Herb Clark.

Seven times since the close of the World War has a referee blown the whistle which loosed the Crimson Tide, of the University of Alabama against the Yellow Jackets, of Georgia Tech. Seven times the two teams have battled with the old-time spirit of the fight-to-a-finish puglisits. Thrice the White and Gold of Tech has flown from the peak of the flag staff when the hostilities had ended. Thrice it was humbled as the Crimson and White waved triumphant. Once wind White waved triumphant. Once wind and wave surged and howled to no and wave surged and howied to no purpose.

This 'afternoon on Grant field the eighth chapter of this unending rivallry will be written. And for one year after today's clash the team which wins will lead the way. For one year it will be entitled to the laugh. The laugh may not be the last, but it will be earned—and enjoyed.

EASY VICTORY.

EASY VICTORY. EASY VICTORY.

In 1922 Tech's Tornado blew its way to an easy victory, with David Irenus Barron—the "Original Red"—as its vortex. The White and Gold stormed back and forth across the field to 33 points. The Crimson Tide, rather pink on that occasion, was able to garner but 7 markers, those on a kick-off return. Tech's passes and slashing drives at the Tide line effected a thorough chastisement for the Tidesmen.

The memories rankled, however, and a thorough chastisement for the Tidesmen.

The memories rankled, however, and those same Tidesmen—or almost the same squad—turned a supposedly easy victory for Tech into a scoreless tie in 1923. Tech had trimmed Penn State the week before with no loss of life and was due to storm bravely again. The bravery rested with the Tide, however, as night fell. Much of it rested with Grant Gillis. Gillis powerful toe it was which made nothing of Tech's fast-gaining attack, stemmed by the Tide forwards when danger threatened.

In that game the Tornado amassed a total of 265 yards gained. Twenty-two first downs. The Tide made not a single 10-yard march. Yet, while Alabama went scoreless, Tech was no better off. And the tie was on the books.

RAIN.

With the next season the forces of Jupiter opened a four-year reign over those of Aeolus. Into the teeth of the gale sallied a powerful Tide—Crimson with no hint of pinkness.

Johnny Mack Brown, then "Young Johnny" made his debut in 1924. Almost single handed "Young Johnny ran the ends, he slashed off tackle, he crashed the guards, he passed, he even essayed a few punts. "Young Johnny' young man mightily proud of himself. And Tech's face, Doug Wycoff, had little help from his mates. He was bottled and none could shake him loose. The Tide was on top.

In 1925 Johnny came back. He brought with him one Pooly Hubert. And between them, with the aid of nine other good men and true, they subdued the Tornado again. This time the count was 7 to 0. Pooly Hubert. And between them, with the aid of nine other good men and true, they subdued the Tornado again. This time the Capstone. Yet it was Johnny Mack who won the battle. He caught a punt a midfield, near the sidelines. Where many another back would have taken it out of bounds—saving personal wear and tear—Johnny Mack streaked out along those sidelines to cross the Tech gool line standing up.

WU WINSLETT.

Hoyt Winslett took over the major share of the hurden in 1926. Hout

Hoyt Winslett took over the major share of the burden in 1926. Hoyt did his work with a good right arm, finging passes accurately into outstretched arms. His first great effort went for a touchdown. His second placed the ball on the 3-yard line. A plunge put it over. His third was another touchdown play. And the Tide had 21 points. The Engineers having none, the Crimson was way out in front.

none, the Crimson was way out in front.

One Stumpy Thomason thrust his powerful legs right nobly to wrest the crown from the Tide in 1927. Stumpy bounded 31 yards, sans interference, to score Tech's first touchdown in four years. Stumpy's hard won counter proved to be the only one Fate had decreed for the day. Powerful lines crashed together—and fell back. Shifty driving backs followed the lines—to no avail. But Tech had broken the streak. Tech was satisfied with its meager—but mighty—seven points.

Then, in 1928, last year, the year of Tech's supremacy. Stumpy and his partner, Warner Mizell, handed the Tornado a 33-13 victory. Breaks left the count at 13-all when half-time arrivel. Fumbles—mental and physical—were converted in rapid order.

A second-half slashing and cutting by Tech's two halfbacks put 20 points in the Jacket column while a powerful forward wall repulsed the threats of the Tide. Tech won, 33-13.

The king is dead—. He died, you will recall, in 1927.

Shall it be long live the king? Or shall the king lose his head? Court convenes at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon. The decision will be argued with vim and vigor. And the punishment shall be swift and sure. The usurper—or the king—will go to his death with dispatch. He will go in his shield, as is fitting.

1879 Captains To Watch Game

LEXINGTON, Ky., Nov. 15.—(P)
Those who sit in the concrete stands at Stoll field tomorrow afternoon probably will see a good football game as the teams of Centre college and Transylvania University meet in their annual clash.

But the event will be much more than a football game. It will commemorate the first gridfron clash in the south. Fifty years ago the football teams of these schools met on the same field. That game in 1879 was witnessed, it is recorded, "by a crowd of ladies and gentlemen," totaling around 500.

Two of the principal participants in that game will be present tomorrow, and they will have a big, though different, part in the program. These are Dr. John L. Patterson, Louisville, and Edward H. Ernst, Cincinnati, who were the captains respectively of the Transylvania and Centre teams in 1879.

The Crimson Tide has been Stumpy's particular meat for the past two years. He has carried death and destruction to them in two hard-fought games. This time Stumpy has no great rush line ahead of him and may find yardage hard to gain, but his defensive play will no doubt be a feature of the game.

"Catchfish" Smith and Bobby Rose were the blocking gentlemen.
Young was punting from his 34-yard line when the two sophomores mentioned above ranted in and slapped at the ball with upraised hands. It wobbled crazily in the air and fell short. Chandler raced in, scooped it up and went back 7 yards to Auburn's 35-yard line. Then he hammered at right tackle and twisted 18 yards to the 17-yārd line.

Dickens on two plays collected 5 yards. Chandler dropped back and threw to Smith, who caught the ball, pards. Chandler dropped back and threw to Smith, who caught the ball, advanced 1 yard, was knocked down and then wisgled the other yard to that white line, for the third touchdown. He failed to kick goal.

Auburn was taking to the air now, but with no effectiveness. The passes were usually intercepted by Joe Boland, who played a fine defensive game.

ROBERTS DRIVES. ROBERTS DRIVES.

Jack Roberts, sophomore fullback, got back in the game at this point and personally saw to it that the ball marched steadily down from the Auburn 43-yard line to the 1-foot line, where the Tigers dug in the dirt and refused to let Georgia through to a score. Roberts carried the ball pracscore. Roberts carried the ball practically every other time on this trip, making 3, 4 and 5-yard gains.

The goal line stand of the Tigers came just as the fourth quarter opened. The drive began late in the third and was continued.

Georgia — Roberts, rather — had worked the ball to the 7-yard line with first down and goal to go. By this time they were yelling "Roberts, again." He got 2 yards at center. Davidson failed to gain, Waugh ran 30 yards across the field to gain 21-2. and then Roberts came within a foot of diving Auburn. Auburn, however, was tackling hard and fighting still harder. The Bulldogs couldn't get through, with Harkins and H. and G. Long getting in there continually.

FINAL MARKER.

Jacobs, standing behind his goal, punted out poorly and Georgia had the ball on Auburn's 25-yard line, hammering on the touchdown door

hammering on the touchdown

They went over this time. Waugh snaked off left tackle for 9 yards and Roberts again made it first down with a 7-yard rush at the center of the line. That had put the ball on Auburn's 9-yard line in a very great burry.

Auburn's 9-yard line in a very great hurry.

Roberts was having a big time sticking his finger in this touchdown pie. He took the ball over from the 9-yard line in three plays. The first time he twisted left tackle for 5 yards. Then he rammed center for 3. He dived over a huge pile for the touchdown and Smith failed to kick goal for the fourth successive time.

That left the score 24-0 and it remained such. Mehre streamed in substitutes and they fought around in midfield until the game ended.

Yale is also a strong favorite to wallon Princeton, but here again the "breaks" that have been so much in evidence all year may help the Tiger, always an opportunist. CORNELL TASK.

CORNELL TASK.

Cornell, one of the few remaining unbeaten arrays, tackles its most formidable rival so far in Dartmouth. even though the Green no longer has Al Marsters to rely on. Cornell is better equipped than in some time to turn the tables on the Hanover eleven and may do it, especially if the Dobic pass-defense is effective.

The Big Ten will watch the Purdue-lowa scoreboard, for a defeat for Purdue would reopen the title chances of such teams as Northwestern, Illinois and Minnesota. These three are favorites, respectively, over Indiana, Chicago and Michigan.

Nebraska, Big Six champions, will seek the scalp of Oklahoma in the main conference engagement, while Missouri is in New York looking for revenge against New York University for last year's setback.

But this team will have to break through a smart, hard charging Notre Dame defense to make any ground—and it will have to stave off the attack of one of the best backfields football has seen in a long time. This backfield has Carrideo, Elder, Brill, Mullins, Schwartz and Kavoldi, and while they will be tested to the limit they should be strong enough to win the game, directed by the extremely able Carrideo, working back of a great line. When the first team takes the field Notre Dame will have eleven halfbacks in and their team speed should be enough to save the day for Football is a game of breaks and if the breaks are with them Southern California is good enough to win. But so far as all-round team strength, speed and power go, Notre Dame should get the decision.

Yale-Princeton-at New Haven. Two weeks ago-or three weeks ago—Princeton looked to be an outclassed team so far as this Yale is concerned. Yale beat Brown, Army and Dartmouth in a row. Princeton was beaten by Brown, Cornell and Chicago. But Princeton has been hustling out of the rut in the last ten days and with every lump of psy-chology in her favor has practically an even chance. The Tiger has everything to win and little to lose after the most it enough to slip by, but a Princeton victory would be no astonishing us set. Yale is picked because the Blue has been the better team since the second game of the season. The race, as a sage remarked, may not be to the swift—but that is where to look.

Pittsburgh-Carriegie Teck—at Pittsburgh. Pittsburgh has been called upon to face two good defensive teams without much attack in Obio State and W. and J. The same thing is partly true tody—with this difference—Carraegie Teck will have a stronger attack than any other Pittsburgh for the will also have a stronger attack than any other Pittsburgh road. Penn State is still to come, but Wally Steffens' charges have the better chance to prove the Panther's place. Pittsburgh so far has been one of the star teams of the year and should win again—but the margin will not be heavy.

The two teams are so well matched that nothing but a slight difference can be shown on the field, but Vanderbilt to date has done slightly the better work and is picked to win a close game.

At any rate the spirit of the Vanderbilt team appeared to be good and they were not whistling through the graveyard. The Commodores think they will win. The Vanderbilt's line holds the answer. If the Commodores' line will get the jump as they did against Tech last week the Commodores will win tomorrow if the Commodores are fast enough and smart enough. LIFTS WHEAT PRICE

CHICAGO, Nov. 15 .- (P)-Decided broadening out of demand for wheat to be shipped overseas or be ground by domestic mills gave wheat values a lively new lift today. It was estimated that 3,000,000 bushels of United States and Canadian wheat were pursumers, and that in the last week more than 1,000,000 bushels of wheat has been bought here for flour mills elsewhere in this country. Bradstreet's Sees Weather as Factor In Slowing Trade

NEW YORK, Nov. 15.—(P)— Bradstreet's tomorrow will say: While excitement in the stock and Bradstreet's tomorrow will say:

While excitement in the stock and speculative commodity markets, with lower prices registered in both early in the week, was frequently cited as a cause for the slowing of trade and industry below last week and the like week a year ago, there was fairly general agreement that unusually warm weather, with rain in wide areas, was a distinctly retarding element in retail and jobbing lines of distribution, especially in wearing apparel. Mention was also made of the fact that early trade in holiday lines was affected by the causes above mentioned. In this connection, sight should not be lost, as regards last year's comparisons of the fact that business a year ago was surging forward in a very heavy volume. Toward the close of the week the speculative pressure had very perceptibly lightened, there was growing belief in the idea that a good deal of the more recent weakness was of an undiscriminating character, and there was a rather more marked tendency to look on the brighter side of things, pending clearer view of the extent of the readjustment. pending clearer view of the extent of Weekly bank clearings, $15,426,-049,000, an increase of 20.9 over a

It was checked by some southern selling and week-end realizing but these offerings were absorbed on setbacks of about 10 points and after selling off from 17.46 to 17.36, January closed at 17.41. The general market closed steady at net advances of 16 to 19 points.

The opening was steady at an advance of 14 to 19 points and after some irregularity active months sold 21 to 23 points net higher on trade buying and covering. The latter was evidently promoted by the higher opening of the stock market, and the relatively steady ruling of Liverpool, but the advance to 17.32 for December and 17.75 for March met considerable realizing for over the week-end.

A little southern selling was also reported and there were reports that the higher prices were bringing out rather freer offerings in the south. Nothing definite developed in that connection, and after selling off some 10 or 11 points from the best, prices steadied up again.

NEW ORLEANS MARKET.

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 15.—(P)—
Cotton prices scored another moderate advance today, being stimulated by exceptionally fayorable Liverpool cables and the lower rediscount rate as well as the continued steadiness of the stock market. Short selling for a reaction and liquidation was encountered around noon, but offerings were absorbed at moderate setbacks and final prices showed an advance of practically $1 a bale.

January contracts, after trading up to 17.40 eased back to 17.29, but rallied later and closed at 17.34, or 18 points net higher. The general market closed steady at net gains of 18 to 21 points.

Liverpool cables were 11 points higher than expected and were reflected in an opening gain here of 17 to 18 points. Prices continued to improve after the start on the better tone in the stock market and the lower rediscount rate. December ultimately sold up to 17.25. January 17.40 and NEW ORLEANS MARKET.

NEW YORK, Nov. 15.—Cotton climbed a little over a dollar a bale during the early trading today, making a gain of $5.50 a bale from the recent lows.

Today's advance was due to continued bad weather in the belt, improvement in stocks, reduction in the New York rediscount rate, promise of income tax reduction and more favorable trade news.

The market ran into considerable resiling around the middle of the session and some fresh short selling. It dipped about half a dollar a bale while absorbing this selling and then rallied to around the previous highs in the late afternoon. LIVERPOOI. Southern Utilities Leader Predicts More Prosperity

An optimistic summary of business conditions in the southeast, based on the increasing demand for electric power, by Thomas W. Martin, of Birmingham, president of the Commonwealth & Southern Corporation and the Southeastern Power & Light Company, was given out today through offices of the Georgia Power Company. Mr. Martin forecast an increase in the industrial development of the section. The statement follows:

nies are better now than at any time past, if we may judge by the output of power on our system.

"On October 22, 1929, we had the largest output of power at any time in the history of our company, the combined output of our various companies in South Carolina, Georgia, Alabama, Florida and Mississippi being for that day 10,706,000 kilowatt hours. For the present year, we anticipate an output on our system of at least 15 per cent in excess of 1928, which reflects the generally favorable conditions which now prevail.

"Looking beyond the present year, we are confident of the continued development of the south by industries seeking to serve the southeastern section of the United States as well as other parts of the country which can be advantageously reached from the south. We are now negotiating with a number of important business enterprises some of which will undoubt-

French Diplomat Given Suspension For Revealing Pact

DUESSELDORF, Germany, Nov. 15.—(P)—This city has been worked to a high pitch of excitement by the activities of a "Jack the Ripper," who has murdered almost a score of young girls recently.

The police have no definite clue to the murder's identity but they have received postcards directing them where to look for the corpses of the victims. PARIS, Nov. 15.—(P)—Count De Noblet D'Anglure, an attache of the French foreign office, today was placed on the inactive list for two years because of the part he was alleged to have played in the publication of an official document. Earlier an investigating magistrate had ruled that there was no ground for prosecution of the count on charge of espionage and plotting against the security of the state.

The count was alleged to have aided Harold Horan, an American newspaperman, to obtain a document purporting to be a secret naval agreement between France and England. Horan was expelled from France more than a year ago.

Bushels as "Mike". Listens In.

PLATTE CITY, Mo., Nov. 15.—(P)

Trained to the point of near perfection, Walter Olson, 32-year-old blond viking from the prairies of Illinois, today pegged and hooked his way to his second consecutive national cornhusking championship.

A crowd of 5,000 persons gathered in mud along the sidelines and cheered the winner and the other 12 contestants from seven middle western states. It was a gala day for Illinois. It likewise was a day of celebration for other lovers of the old American sport.

Apartment dwellers in the big cities joined farmers throughout the country around their radios and were present in silent witness to the Illinois man's triumph. The program was broadcast by members of the National Broadcasting Company chain.

Harold Holmes, 31, of Woodhull, Ill., who defeated Olson in the 1929 Illinois contest and who accompanied the champion here, was eclipsed today by the fast-moving, lithe 1928 and 1929 national winner. Holmes, however, finished second, husking 24.74 ever, finished second, husking 24.74 bushels of corn in 80 minutes as compared to 25.27 bushels husked and thrown into an accompanying wagon by the cornfield king.

Other lesser cash prizes were paid other winners at a dinner served other winners at a dinner served country style in Platte City tonight. Husking is serious business in the eyes of "cornfield athletes." Olson, slight but wiry, has been in training for today's contest for several weeks. Missouri mules, famous for past performances in Uncle Sam's army, sleek with much grooming, pulled the low-wheeled wagons into which the corn was thrown. A one-pound army cannon from a point of vantage boomed the orders that started and ended the championship engagement.

When Harvey confessed tonight he was taken to the scene of the killing, where he disclosed the hatchet and pocket knife used in the murders hidden behind a clump of bushes, officers said.
